Topic: They want to pay me?!

Many times organizations budget for program, and if you are the storyteller, or the workshop leader on storytelling, they will want to pay you. You may feel that storytelling is a hobby, or a ministry, or a calling, and you don't want or need anything as recompense. What if you demur, say nothing, and they hand you a check?

Perhaps you would like to be reimbursed for your time and materials.

What do you do?

What do you say?

How do you determine a fee for your service?

Contact Barb if you plan to come to the workshop.

If you are presenting workshops or storytelling regularly, send Barb the details. We'd like to know what you are doing!

If you no longer want to be contacted by us, please drop Barb a line or call her.
